SUNDAY MORNING, JANUARY 10, 1860. INVOCATION. O Lord, we look up unto thee in unconscious want. Every flower, and all tilings that live, or fly, or swim, or creep, depend upon thee; and we in the body are fed without our thought or care. But for our souls, whose hunger is greater, whose need is more, we draw near to thee this morning, and say, Bear Father, love us. Let us have within ourselves the knowledge of thy love, and our troubles shall be at an end; and we shall have quiet and joy unspeakable and full of glory. Grant that the ministration of the truth, the service of prayer, and thanksgiving, and song, and meditation, and instruction, may all of them conspire to lead us into the blessedness of thy fatherhood, that this day may be as the opening of the...

The ideal ebook i possibly study. Better then never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
