Excerpt: . . . of his arty in the campaigns, that he has to defend his country in the field when the sterner duties of war summoned him in its defense. A close study of the history of caucuses and conventions will convince any unbiased mind, in search for truth, that the voter has been gradually eliminated as a factor, after long, patient trial, because the delegate system has utterly failed to represent him or to reflect his opinion in its results. Through the succession of generations human nature is the same, and when De Tocqueville declared that the most powerful, and perhaps the only, means of interesting men in the welfare of the country is to make them partakers in the govern ment, he uttered a truth which applies quite as forcibly to the primary step in suffrage, as to the secondary step in suffrage, --to the...
