In particular, because of incomplete coverage of local areas in the US and or data suppression problems, there is the potential that local information will not be available on energy electricity costs, labor costs, tax per person, travel times to transportation modes, highway travel conditions, and Broadband Access. (For the other variables, data are available for each county in the US and county values are never suppressed.) In these case, the user has two options. If the user has no information on or idea about the relative values of a variable in the Study and Comparison Area, he or she should simply enter 1 s for both the Study and Comparison Areas. If, however, the user does not have precise data but does have a sense of...
